BUCERIUS
IN THE USA

A NOTE AMONG FRIENDS

Thank you for your interest in American Friends of Bucerius (AFB), an independent, charitable 501(c)(3) organization founded in 2006. AFB supports programs of and carries out activities inspired by the ZEIT-Stiftung Ebelin und Gerd Bucerius, one of Germany's largest private foundations, and its flagship institution Bucerius Law School, Germany's first private law school dedicated to enhancing international legal and business education.

From its inception, Bucerius has placed a strong emphasis on its relationships in the United States. AFB strives to bring together the continually growing, dynamic Bucerius community in America – the biggest network outside of Germany – and to foster lifelong relationships with and between Bucerius alumni and its academic, nonprofit, and corporate partners. In 2009, American Friends of Bucerius opened an office in New York to advance these efforts.

We look forward to expanding our work in the United States, and hope for a warm welcome as we establish a home away from Germany.

INTERNATIONALISM IN PRACTICE

As an extension of Bucerius organizations in Hamburg, American Friends of Bucerius (AFB) is a nonprofit organization that helps to carry out the mission of advancing international education, promoting dialogue across law and business disciplines, and strengthening transatlantic relationships.

As a network organization, the AFB supplements existing Bucerius alumni associations to connect a broader group of distinguished Bucerius-affiliated individuals and organizations and to foster lifelong bonds. Prestigious academic institutions, law firms, and corporations, as well as outstanding professionals in the law and business community, make up our thriving network in the United States.

Placing great emphasis on professional development and networking events, AFB is collaborating with academic and nonprofit institutions and corporate sponsors to host thought-provoking discussions with high-profile speakers at the top of their fields.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The American Friends of Bucerius Board not only serves as a governing body providing leadership and direction, but also plays a hands-on role in the development and execution of AFB activities. Comprised of American and European law practitioners, professors, and academics with international experience, our Board members are truly representative of the Bucerius network.

ZEIT-STIFTUNG EBELIN UND GERD BUCERIUS

The ZEIT-Stiftung, one of Germany's largest, privately funded charitable foundations and a great inspiration to AFB, provides the basis for our work. In the spirit of its founder, Gerd Bucerius, a noted lawyer, politician, and publisher of Germany's leading weekly newspaper, DIE ZEIT, the ZEIT-Stiftung's mission is to promote knowledge and provide enriching cultural opportunities. Its activities are centered on research, scholarship, and education, as well as art and culture.

Based in Hamburg, the ZEIT-Stiftung encourages crossing boundaries to enable active contributions that strengthen civilian society. Thus, American institutions and individuals play a major role in the realization of several of the Foundation's research, art, and education initiatives, among them:

Bucerius Summer School on Global Governance

Launched in 2001, this inspiring two-week seminar in Hamburg and Berlin brings together leaders of tomorrow to network; discuss key issues in global governance, politics, and economics; and learn from eminent speakers. Participants with diverse backgrounds in politics, business, nongovernmental organizations, media, and academia come from around the world to advance international discourse.

Migration Studies: "Settling Into Motion"

This Bucerius Ph.D. scholarship program supports international doctoral students of social sciences who are researching current migration issues worldwide, with many scholars and advisors coming from U.S. institutions.

The Transatlantic Academy

This is an initiative of the German Marshall Fund of the United States, the ZEIT-Stiftung, the Robert Bosch Stiftung, and the Lynde and Harry Bradley Foundation. It brings European and American experts to Washington, D.C., to explore the challenges faced by nation states, the economy, and society and to conduct intensive scholarly research. The Academy has also received funding from the Transatlantic Program of the Government of the Federal Republic of Germany and from the Compagnia di San Paolo.

American Marshall Memorial Fellowship

Every spring, the ZEIT-Stiftung hosts an intensive, five-day program that introduces a group of American Marshall Memorial Fellows to the city of Hamburg, its media, culture, industry, and politics. The ZEIT-Stiftung is a partner of the German Marshall Fund of the United States, which initiated the program to expose future U.S. leaders to a changing and expanding Europe.

The Bucerius Kunst Forum

This exciting arts forum in the center of Hamburg houses stimulating exhibitions and events in art, literature, and music. Public enthusiasm for international art has led the Bucerius Kunst Forum to collaborate with leading museums and art houses in Europe and the United States for exchange and joint exhibition planning. The Whitney Museum of American Art and the Wadsworth Atheneum Museum of Art are among the Forum's American partners.

BUCERIUS LAW SCHOOL

Bucerius Law School is the ZEIT-Stiftung's flagship institution and Germany's first private law school. Established in 2000, the School serves as a model for modern legal education.

Bucerius's foremost strength is its internationalism, attracting students and faculty to its Hamburg campus from all over the world. It has been internationally recognized for its innovative, practice-oriented curriculum; bilingual education programs; and focus on transnational and comparative business law, a particular draw as lawyers increasingly encounter foreign legal systems. A strong emphasis is also placed on the connection of law and business. Within a decade, the young school has earned a reputation as a premier global institution, and is consistently ranked among the top three law schools in Germany.

Bucerius Law School is especially well connected in the United States, collaborating with over 90 law schools in 30 countries and counting 32 American law schools among its partners. From these schools, Bucerius receives top faculty and students to participate in its American Bar Association-approved International Exchange Program, with courses taught in English. Offering a unique academic experience and diverse cultural perspectives, the program by definition is an exercise in internationalism.

BUCERIUS EXECUTIVE EDUCATION

Bucerius Executive Education delivers training programs to lawyers, corporate counsels, and senior managers seeking further professional growth and career advancement. From open-enrollment training programs for individuals to customized formats and in-house solutions, Bucerius Executive Education tailors offerings to address client needs. The academic spectrum ranges from one-day seminars and workshops to intensive multiweek programs. The practice-oriented curriculum has an intercultural focus, and is geared toward dealing with current global business and management challenges. It also trains toward intercultural and leadership skills' development, as well as presentation techniques and terminology.
